

BOAT CLUBS FOR PONTIAC OF NOBATHERS

Spectacles Along Potomac's Virginia Shore Arouse Wrath.

CRITICISING THE SHERIFF

Ribald Remarks Almost Preclude Presence of Ladies Among Boating Parties.

In spite of the fact that the attention of the District and Virginia authorities has been called to the practice of many young men and boys going in swimming in the upper Potomac without bathing suits, no arrests of the offenders have been made.

There has been much complaint in the last few days that the nude swimmers are exceedingly objectionable on the Virginia side of the river above the Aqueduct bridge. These complainants say the offenses are confined almost exclusively to the Virginia shore although some instances of undressed boys in District territory have been reported to the various boating houses along the river.

Sheriff Palmer, of Alexandria county, Va., who has power to arrest these nuisances on the Virginia side, was asked today why he had made no arrests in this connection.

Sheriff Looking for Them.

"I am looking for these nude bathers constantly," he said. "I have been up the river three separate times, but have not succeeded in finding a single naked person in the water or on the bank. I am inclined to think that the attention called to the matter by The Times has had a salutary effect on the bathers, and they are acting with more prudence."

"I intend to go up there many more times, and I have warned those who frequent the place that they will be arrested if found in bathing without some covering. As I said, though, I have been absolutely unable to find any offending boys or men."

"If a young man stands on the bank without clothes on, in the full view of boatloads of people on the river, would he be liable to arrest?" the sheriff was asked.

"Most certainly," replied Mr. Palmer. "If he goes into the water undressed, he is liable to arrest."

Could If He Would.

The boating fraternity on the Potomac, however, insists that if he would look more closely for the offenders he could find them. Boating people say the evil has somewhat decreased, but there are still many objectionable exhibitions on the banks of the river.

One man, who is prominent in boating circles here, said today:

"Undoubtedly, there are some people engaged in this practice who should be arrested. It is the only way to make them stop annoying the ladies and gentlemen who take the river as their dressing room. I am sure that if the sheriff would divert attention from the warm day in the city."

Many Standing, who was instrumental in starting the public outcry against the nuisance, said:

"While there has been some improvement in the situation since the article was published in The Times last week calling attention to it, there is still room for improvement. I am sure that if the matter will be satisfactorily settled until some arrests have been made and an object lesson given to the offenders, it is still next to impossible to take ladies on the river Saturday and Sunday afternoons, because these boys and young men use the river as their dressing room, and go into the water without bathing suits. I do not see why some of them can't be arrested on almost any afternoon."

Boating Parties Shocked.

The bathhouses and boat clubs on the river have complaints registered with them every afternoon by parties who have gone up the river for pleasure spins and who come back to tell their tales of woe about the unrestrained custom of these boys and men going into the river without bathing suits. They are unanimous in declaring that it would be the easiest thing in the world for the sheriff to catch the offenders while on the shore or in the water without clothes or bathing suits on.

Some assert that the nude bathers are still further offensive by shouting ribald remarks to boatloads of people passing up and down the river. It was said today that it is impossible for a lady to go out in a boat by themselves in the afternoon unless they keep close all the time to the shore, where the water, which is sunny and not pleasant for rowing or canoeing.

Altogether, the body concerned in the matter—except the bathers—is eager to have the sheriff repeat his visits to that section above the Aqueduct bridge. It is the unanimous opinion that he could make many arrests.

BALLOON AND PARACHUTE CAUGHT FIRE IN MID-AIR

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 5.—Falling 2,000 feet in a parachute, which refused to open till almost on a house, C. A. Franks, a Toledo aeronaut, barely escaped death this afternoon at North Hill.

He had reached an altitude of 2,000 feet when the spectators saw a small object drop from the balloon. An instant later only a puff of smoke showed where the balloon had been.

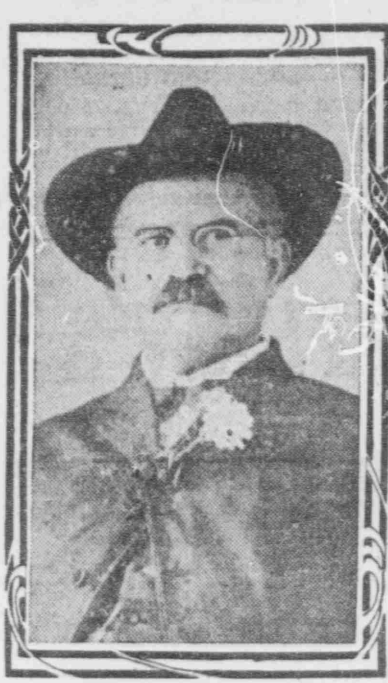

"It's all right!" was the simultaneous shout.

Franks was shooting down with fearful rapidity. His parachute still folded. He had descended to within twenty feet of a house when the parachute suddenly opened, and Franks swung gently on to the house. Then it was seen that the parachute also had caught fire. The house on which it struck caught fire a moment after the parachute had fallen and was destroyed.

Schroeder's Band and orchestra accompanies the boat and plays all the latest concert and dance music. The steamer Charles Macalester will leave promptly at 6:30 p. m. on Friday and Saturday evenings. SHOT BY NEPHEW

M. S. KIDD,
Who Was Yesterday Killed by Cornelius Kidd.

BOY KILLS UNCLE IN FATHER'S HOUSE

Fourth of July Tragedy Occurs in Alexandria.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU, ALEXANDRIA, VA., JULY 5.

M. S. Kidd, fifty-nine years of age, lying dead at Demaine's undertaking rooms, and Cornelius Kidd, his nephew, seventeen years old, who it is alleged fired the shot which killed his uncle, a fugitive from justice, is the climax to a Fourth of July tragedy in Alexandria.

The trouble between the younger Kidd and his uncle occurred about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at 815 North Columbus street, the home of J. M. Kidd, the father of the former.

There were no witnesses to the trouble between the two men, except the father of the boy who did the shooting and who was awakened from his sleep by the shot.

The father stated to a Times reporter yesterday afternoon that he was lying on the floor in his front room asleep and was awakened by a shot. He arose and saw his brother and his son scuffling. He separated them and took the pistol from his brother's hands.

It was then that he found that his brother had been shot. He stated that his son, Cornelius, was playing ball on the commons across the street from his house when his uncle came out of the house and, calling him across the street, accused him of taking his hat. The boy denied any knowledge of the hat, whereupon, it is alleged, the elder Kidd began to abuse his nephew. The boy went into the house, followed by his uncle. After a heated argument the younger Kidd secured a pistol belonging to his father and retired to a front room. His uncle followed him into the parlor and began choking him. The boy is then supposed to have fired the pistol.

Police authorities of Alexandria county and those of Washington city were notified of the shooting and were asked to apprehend the younger Kidd, who made his escape immediately after the tragedy.

As soon as the elder Kidd was shot he was removed to the Alexandria hospital. He died at 5 o'clock this morning.

The dead man was an employee of the Southern Railway company. The boy was employed at the Belle Press Glass Works.

Funeral of Joseph Sherwood.

The funeral of the late Joseph T. Sherwood will be held from his home in Queen street this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Rev. J. A. Jeffers of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, will conduct the funeral services, and the interment will be made in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

In Police Court.

Howard Banks, colored, was before Justice Caton in the police court this morning on a charge of assaulting Lowellyn Bockley. He was fined $10.

Mack Braxton, colored, was arrested by Policemen Bettis and Nicholson yesterday on the charge of assaulting his wife with a razor. He was fined $10.

Ball Games on Fourth.

The Invincibles defeated the Old Dominion baseball nine by the score of 1 to 0, in an interesting game played on the old fair grounds yesterday at 3 o'clock. The Rev. J. A. Jeffers of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, will conduct the funeral services, and the interment will be made in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

WIFE'S THREAT TO SUE THAW LED TO MURDER

in Possession of Affidavits by Evelyn Nesbit.

INSPIRED BY DEAD MAN

Amazing Details of Girl's Life Known to Prosecuting Attorneys.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Details of the breach of promise suit which Evelyn Nesbit Thaw contemplated bringing against Harry M. Thaw six months before their marriage, were revealed today. The district attorney's office traces to this action the motive for the murder of Stanford White.

The prosecution has been informed that Thaw believed Stanford White inspired the suit. An affidavit made by Evelyn Nesbit to be used in the suit, is in the possession of the State, and witnesses have been found to whom the young chorus girl, in a burst of confidence showed love letters from Harry Thaw, on which the suit was based.

According to the facts related to the district attorney, Evelyn Nesbit left Harry Thaw in Paris because of his erratic and cruel conduct. She feared him and returned to New York, taking apartments in a Broadway hotel. She had with her a number of letters written to her by Thaw. In these letters he painted a glowing picture of her life if she married him.

Urged to Give Up Other Men.

She was told that she would be a society queen, with unlimited means, and every wish and whim gratified. Thaw professed undying love and urged her to give up other men and marry him. The names of several persons to whom these letters were exhibited are said to be known to the prosecution.

Although she had voluntarily left Thaw, Evelyn Nesbit expected to recover a large sum of money from him. As to the extent of White's influence in causing her to take such action, there is said to be evidence that when she returned to New York she met White at Sherry's, with demonstrations of affection, and they had a long and earnest talk.

Following this the affidavit was drawn up. On Thaw's return from abroad he was shown the affidavit. He at once capitulated, it is said, met Evelyn Nesbit and gave her a large sum of money, and also settled the fees of her lawyers, which were unusual. Shortly afterward Miss Nesbit went to Europe.

Patched Up Differences.

Thaw followed her and they patched up their differences abroad. Later Thaw learned that Stanford White had instigated the action against him, according to the story told the district attorney, and the knowledge rankled within him. It is charged that his bitter hatred for White began then and grew until it developed into the passion to slay.

The prosecution will charge that this was the prime motive for the murder of Stanford White.

MARY POPKINS MAY RECOVER

Validity of Victim of Murderous Attack Surprises Physicians.

The physicians attending Little Mary Popkins, who has been lying in a ward at Freedman's Hospital since Monday afternoon in a dying condition from injuries inflicted by her uncle, John Popkins, said today there was a faint ray of hope for the girl's recovery.

In her weakened condition from loss of blood the girl is holding up bravely. Her remarkable vitality is a matter of astonishment to the doctors. Dr. Warfield said today the girl had a chance for recovery. She is able to talk, but no one except her father, the attending physicians, and nurses is permitted to enter the sickroom.

Much encouragement is derived from the fact that the food given her is assimilated, and the doctors hope that the crisis has passed and she may get well.
